

GREG ROMEO

Customized Comedy For Your Event

Clean, clever, and creative customized comedy. That's what you can expect when you hire Greg. Since 1991, Greg has delighted audiences with his easy going stage presence, clever word play, and relatable topics.

Greg has performed in a wide variety of venues, including corporate shows, colleges, clubs, and private events. Some of his favorite topics include education, marriage, raising children, relationships, and topical observational humor from today's headlines.

Greg began performing stand-up comedy as a graduate student at UNC-Greensboro. From there it was a few years on the club circuit, until Greg found his calling with corporate shows. Greg's customized comedy has been a hit at Pepsi, IBM, Sara Lee, Wake Forest University, and the American Cancer Society - to name just a few!

“This is Your Company” - Custom Comedy Show

Greg's greatest strength is his ability to customize his show for each audience. He works closely with you to gather information and then effortlessly turns the material into a hilarious, interactive performance! You may see a coworker on stage doing an Elvis impersonation, a laugh-filled newscast about your company, or a game show filled with non-stop jokes about your organization. Greg's routines are always in good taste, and never meant to embarrass. This is much more than a stand-up comedy routine – it's a one-of-a-kind collection of sketches about life at your company!

“Dr. Gary Romano” - Fake Motivational Speaker

Everyone hires a motivational speaker. What about a not-so-motivational speaker for your next event? And if a “guest speaker from your industry” is a better fit for your program, Greg can handle that, too. What an unforgettable way to begin or finish a meeting or conference!

“Greg was a HUGE hit. Everyone is talking about his act and the event saying it was our best event ever (this is our 19th Holiday dinner in a row). Just a great reaction. Fantastic job!!”
